What is EviCore's Vascular Intervention program?

EviCore's Vascular Intervention Program consists of Prior Authorization Medical Necessity Determinations for various procedures to treat arterial and venous disease. Arterial disease can affect multiple vessels across the body: the brain, the arms, the abdomen and the lower extremities. Those blockages can lead to symptoms such as stroke, bleeding, claudication, ischemic rest pain and non-healing wounds or gangrene, but many times can be asymptomatic, mild, or moderate. Only symptomatic or severe disease warrants an intervention based on evidence-based guidelines. Venous disease can be a result of either thrombosis (clotting) or reflux due to poorly functioning valves. Venous disease is common and often asymptomatic. If medically indicated, there are a number of procedures that can be performed to relieve pain and/or non-healing wounds that result from poorly functioning veins. Lastly, the vascular intervention program also addresses rare diseases in peripheral arterial disease such as arteriovenous malformations and vascular compression syndromes.
